DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the telescopic drive as recited in claims 1 and 11 must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
4. Recitations "a telescopic drive having a spindle nut" and "a crash element" as recited in claim 1 render the claim indefinite for being unclear, because according to the specification, a spindle nut 5.6 is introduced into the sleeve 4.1 on the opposite side of the crash element 4, in other words, the crash element 4 having a spindle nut, therefore it is not known what element is referred to "a telescopic drive" and whether or not a telescopic drive and a crash element are same part. For purpose of examining the claims on merit, examiner assumes that applicant intended to claim the crash element having a spindle nut.
5. Claim 11 and 13 are indefinite with similar reason as indicated above.
6. Claims 4 and 14 recite the limitation "the bearing block" in line 5. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

8. Claims 1-2, 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Singer et al (U.S. 5,520,416).

Singer et al discloses a steering-column assembly for a motor vehicle, having an outer casing tube (16), a telescopic inner casing tube (20) and a crash element (60) having a spindle nut (threaded portion of the actuator 60), a telescopic spindle (58) which is fastened to the inner casing tube (20) via the crash element (60), and a telescopic motor (42) having a step-down gear mechanism (see column 4, lines 20-21), wherein the crash element (60) is of at least partially hollow configuration and accommodates the spindle nut; wherein the crash element (60) is formed by a sleeve and a pin (actuator 60 is telescopic, therefore it is inherent that the actuator has a pin being inserted into the sleeve in order to allow telescopic movement of the actuator 60) which is positioned coaxially with respect to the sleeve, is at least partially inserted into the sleeve at one end side of the sleeve and is fastened to the sleeve.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Singer et al.

11. Singer et al further discloses that the step down gear mechanism and the motor are mounted on the vehicle body via a bearing (14). Singer et al does not directly disclose the bearing is formed at least partially from plastic.

12. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make his bearing by plastic, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin 125 USPQ 416.

Allowable Subject Matter

13. Claim 5-9, and 15-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

14. Claims 4, 13-14 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
